department are well placed in different walks of life.

About the Seminar

In today's rapidly changing business environment, managing innovation effectively has become an essential requirement for staying competitive. Long term sustainability for a business may be determined by a company's ability to competently direct innovation resources to address a constantly changing market and economic environment. Commerce and Management innovation can be defined as a difference in the form, quality, or state over time of the management activities in an organization, where the change is a novel or unprecedented departure from the past. Commerce and Management has become highly technology oriented and sophisticated. Information technology is influencing every walk of business. It has made the world as global village. So we decided to discuss on the main theme of "Innovative Strategies in Commerce and Management".
